Charles E. Gay and a companion named Thomanson wandered in the blinding snowstorm, keeping alive more by will power perhaps than anything else. Over 500 miles from Nomthey became bewildered. The blinding storm obliterated the tracks behind them and the trail in front. They wandered toward the Azetic Circle and with no hope of weathering the storm, gave themselves up as lost. Particulars of the discovery of the party by a passing native reindeer driver are meager. He arrived at Telor and told Dr. Weatt that Zoolla was dead and that both Gay and Thomanson were pobably dying. Wyatt immediately went to Nome

BURGLARS IN COURT ACT AS ATTORNEYS.

There was an unusual spectacle in the Police Court today. Charles Wright, one of the trio of burgiars who were cleverly captured recently by Policemen Andrews and Cockerton, was having his preliminary examination, while W. H. Long and John McDonald, the other two suspected burglars, were playing the role of attorneys for the defense.

Long, who is minus his right arm, proved an adept in cross-examining the officers called to the witness stand, and McDonald was jotting down at a rapid rate, with pencil and tab, many questions to be put by the defense. They had no lawyer to represent them. While, from the evidence adduced, it appears most likely that Wright will be held to answer, it is feared the cases against McDonald and Long have been spolled, because it has been shown that the watch chain and some coins which were stolen during the burglary at E. Olson's saloon at Third and Jefferson streets, were not found on their persons, but had been thrown out of the locker before they had been searched.

A pair of shoes found in Wright's possession were identified by Olson as having been stolen from his place, and the prosecution also introluced an exhibit in the way of a chisel found at Olson's and which had been stolen from an East Oakland barber shop. The chisel had been used in forcing the lock at Olson's saloon.

TRUCKMEN HAVE ORGANIZED.

for All Kinds of Carrying.

The work of unionizing continues in every section and each day witnesses the formation of a new organization, the underlying principles of which is self-protection.

The newest candidate in this respect is a boss teamsters' union of this city. which has just sprung full-fledged into existence.

It is composed of a hardy, industri ous and intelligent class of the demmunity, whose prosperity is an evidence of the advancement of the town and who are first to feel the effects of stagnation in business.

When times are dull these men must pay their drivers and hostiers, subsist themselves, and deny to their equines the pleasure of all idle horses, nameely, of "eating their heads off."

This union has been formed for mutual protection and the extension of better fellowship among the members. It was inspired by two things, namely, the success of a similar organization in San Francisco, and the recent establishment of the Drivers' Union in

The new organization will be known as the Express and Drayman's Associ-ation of Alameda county. It has al-tendy seventy members, and other people in the business are daily making application for admission. The roll of membership will remain open until After that date the initiation fee will be raised to a figure, relatively speaking, in keeping with that of the kindred organization in San Francis-

This union intends to pay its men living wages, and, to do this, it hopes to regulate charges among the several transfer companies, as also for expressing and drayage. TIR. MILLS AND THE NEWSPAPERS.

The newspaper publishers of California will feel a sense of deep regret at the severance of the kindly official and business relations they have for so many years sustained with Hon, W. H. Mills, who has been relieved, at his requesty of the personal direction of the press bureau of the Southern Pacific Company. He has directed this bureau for many years, in addition, managing the band department; of the Central Pacific, with the rare fact and notable fidelity to the interests intrusted to his charge. He brought to the discharge of his task a while and intimate acquaintnace with men and affairs, a cool judgment and a keen insight into human nature. His diplomatic skill and unfailing courtesy made him exceedingly popular with legitimate newspaper men, while his versatile talent and vast fund of information in de him a most instructive and companionable man of affairs. His knowledge of the resurces of the State is comprehensive and minute, and no man better understood the place of the press in the social and in instribit organism. He gained access to every avenue of public. thought and left his Impress upon it.

Mr. Mills will remain at the head of the land department but his intimate connection with the press has ceased with GEN. BELL TELLS HOW THEY HANDLED his relinquishment of the direction of the press bureau. Newspaper men generally will hold Mr. Mills in affectionate remembrance, which will doubtless be reciprocated, for Associated Press Dispatch to The Tribuns. Mr. Mills is a practical newspaper man himself, and has i never got over his fondness for printers' ink.

The application has been endorseby the Ruilding Trades' Council of this city and twenty labor unions, comprising the bone and show of the skilled workmen of the community. Accompanying the application and reommendation are a map of Oakland and facts setting forth the size and importance of this city. These have been sent because the Musicians' Union of San Francisco has purposely misrepresented Oakland be-

GREET M'KINLEY

It Never Bloomed Before.

The reception to President McKinley and party on the part of the people of this city will be the grandest thing of the kind that has taken place on this side of the bay.

The General Committee of Arrangements and the several sub-committees are working like Trojans, and there is nothing that can be done which will be left undone to prove to the distinguished visitors the loyalty of the people and to leave an impression on their minds which will survive the recollect on of a host of similar demonstrations in their

At the same time some of the committees are necessarily working in the dark, because the personnel of the Presidential party is not known and it is also uncertain as to what part in the reception will be taken by Mrs. Me-Kinley, whom the ladies of this city are particularly anxious to honor

WORKING DAY AND NIGHT.

Edson F. Adams as the head of the general committee has been, and is still, working night and day in the matter and declares that, while each day develops some new feature to be attended to, everything will be found in readiness for the auspicious occasion at the proper time.

Chairman Mitchell of the Finance Committee, with other members of the same body, is devoting all his time to the work of raising funds for the event, and everywhere is meeting with the greatest encouragement. As a conse quence the Committee on Decoration is encouraged to go ahead and carry out its part of the work.

DECORATIONS,

A. S. Macdonald, chairman of the latter committee, told a TRIBUNE report er today the streets along which the Presidential party would pass would be decorated as they had never be a decorated before. The scheme will be one of both color and design and will. In some respects, be unique and artistic.

The blocks between the intersecting streets will be aflutter with streamers, flags and pennons, while at the intersecting thoroughfares there will be tranverse stretches of brilliant colors, which will be wrought into beautiful und symbolic designs.

ARCHES. Another feature will be a couple of clab orate floral arches, which are to be designed by leading architects, and in the garnishment of which only flowers of the most beautiful order will be emolyed, in the furnishing of the material for these arches the patriotic sympachy of the ladies has been arcused and there is no doubt that the work will be don in a manner which will relound to their credit and be worthy of the distinguished guests whom they desire to honer, A BEAUTIFUL CANOPY.

Another feature of the work of the committee on decoration will be the ornamentation of the High school and the stand on the Eleventh street side which the President will hallow with his ence. At that point the pereanial scason of Oakland will be impressed upon the minds of the guests by an elaborate display of the choicest roses. There will be a canopy of national colors extending from the High school to Eleventh street, This will not be formed out of tern and grimy flags which have battled for years filed a petition sking that the will of Dorothea Kuckes, also known as Dorothea Kuckes, also known as Dorothea Cook, formerly Detective Milkelsen, their Cook, formerly Detective Milkelsen, tistle win in design, execution and colorand itted to 1rob to, promising that It will shelter the President and party tistle gem in design, execution and color,
